SPCA Florida A Good Friday Rescue

Lakeland, FL— It truly is a “Good Friday” at SPCA Florida. When tiny kitten cries were heard from a back corner on SPCA Florida’s campus, staff member Randa Richter followed the faint voices and found a mother cat and her 7 newborn kittens.

Two weeks prior, a very pregnant cat got away from her caregiver in the SPCA Florida parking lot. Unfortunately, the frighten feline ran into the woods and though great efforts were made to find and trap her, no one saw her until this morning, Good Friday. The pregnant mother found the safest and warmest place possible behind two large propane tanks and give birth to seven newborns.

So hungry was the mom that she put aside her fear, and entered the trap filled with food. Once mama was contained, Randa managed to squeeze behind the propane tanks to gather all 7 babies.

Easter Friday’s mom and kittens are now safe and tucked away in a warm kennel. Mother cat and kittens will be given the proper medical care, shelter, and food by SPCA Florida staff. They will also be transferred to a foster home.

April was the name given to the mother cat, as she gave birth in April on Good Friday.

“This was a miraculous morning, said Shelley Thayer, Executive Director, SPCA Florida. “Randa is a magnet when it comes to finding animals and mom trusted her enough to let her help. We are relieved to know that she and her kittens are safe and will have years of love ahead,” said Thayer.
